

Attraction, attractiveness

(from Latin attrahere "to pull towards oneself")

From observation of flows between places, is deduced by analogy the existence of a force of attraction exerted by attributes of a place (site, resources, mass,...) on actors of another place. Attractiveness is a measure of the force of attraction of a place, generally function of the sum of flows attracted by this place.

See also : Gravity model[gallery link="file" ids="1066,1069"]

Bibliographie

HYP ERGEO