Friction

Friction of distance is an expression that is sometimes used in order to designate the attenuating effect of distance on intensity of interactions between places, or else, in gravity models, the parameter measuring this gradient.

Bibliographie